

Portrait of a Confederate

A Confederate soldier poses for a photograph before leaving for the war. The average soldier was in his mid-20s, came from a rural background, and had probably not been away from home before.