

General Buckner's tunic

A few Confederate generals wore this style of pleated tunic rather than the usual double-breasted frock coat. The wealthy Buckner had been a friend of Grant's before the war and had helped him out of financial difficulties.