

10 The wooden fuse plug was inserted into the nose of shells or into hollow case shot.

11 The quadrant and friction primer were used to aim and fire the gun. The quadrant was placed in the muzzle to determine the angle of elevation. The primer, attached to a long lanyard, was inserted in the vent hole to ignite the powder charge below.