

¹⁴ A thumbstall was worn when an artilleryman pressed his thumb over the cannon's vent hole to kill any sparks before the gun was reloaded.

¹⁵ The Napoleon cannon was the most common smoothbore cannon of the war, manufactured and used by the Union and Confederate armies. Its official name was the Model 1857 gun-howitzer. This brass cannon was first manufactured in France in 1853, and is named for Emperor Napoleon III.