

Waiting the Hour, December 31, 1862

Black Americans wait for midnight on December 31, 1862, in a painting by William Tolman Carlton. The Emancipation Proclamation was due to be signed by President Lincoln the following day.