

Taking over the plantation

After Union troops captured Hilton Head Island, South Carolina, in 1861, hundreds of people who had escaped enslavement gathered there. A community was built for them at Mitchelville and some began to harvest and gin cotton for their own profit.

OceanofPDF.com