

Debating the Compromise of 1850

Henry Clay urges the Senate to accept a package of bills designed to appease Northerners and Southerners. Eventually, the measures he proposed were all passed, but as separate acts.

“Our slaves are black, of another and an inferior race. The status in which we have placed them is an elevation ...”

SOUTH CAROLINA U.S. SENATOR JAMES HENRY HAMMOND, MARCH 4, 1858

Compromise and growth