

their way. Had Sickles not been there, Lee's plan to roll up Meade's left flank might well have worked.

Union drum

Drums were used for communication on the battlefield. Each regiment had several drummers who would beat out signals to the troops on the commanding officer's order.