

As the sun set on the bloodsoaked field, Thomas finally withdrew his weary command and joined the rest of the Union army at Chattanooga.

34,000

The estimated total number of casualties resulting from the Battle of Chickamauga. Bragg lost around 18,000 men to Rosecrans's 16,000—more than one-quarter of their combined forces.

The Confederate advance

In Alfred Waud's drawing, the Confederate line is shown advancing uphill through forest toward the Union line on the second day of the Battle of Chickamauga. British-born Waud worked as an artist-correspondent for Harper's Weekly magazine.

Colt 1853 revolving rifle

Developed by Samuel Colt, this rifle had a revolving cylinder that increased its rate of fire. It was used by the 21st Ohio Volunteers at Chickamauga.
