

offices open night and day. If you have to fall back, take it coolly and gather up the operators, instruments, and material as you retire."

Telegraph operator

Both sides in the war used telegraphy to send or "wire" messages over long distances. Most operators were civilians, and the messages relayed everything from train dispatches to battle plans.