

American Indian cavalry man

Units of American Indians from the Indian Territory fought on both sides in the Civil War, which divided tribes and pitted them against each other. The units were known for their mounted rifle attacks.