

AFTER

While Grant struggled ferociously with Lee at Spotsylvania, subsidiary operations were unfolding elsewhere in Virginia.

DEATH OF STUART

On the evening of May 12, 1864, Lee's cavalry chief, Jeb Stuart, died in Richmond of a wound received fighting Sheridan's troopers at Yellow Tavern (see Maneuvering toward Richmond).

DEFEAT IN THE VALLEY

Four days later, on May 15, Franz Sigel's Union army was defeated by John C. Breckinridge's Confederates at the Battle of New Market (see Valley defeats), delaying Grant's hopes for a successful Shenandoah Valley offensive.

BUTLER BOTTLED UP

On May 5, 1864, General Benjamin Butler landed his Army of the James at Bermuda Hundred, but P. G. T. Beauregard's forces were soon able to confine him there (see Rebel Victories).
