

Juggernaut J-5 carrying raw rhydonium to the refinery

Well-worn dirt road to Imperial refinery

MORAK

Morak is a forested world with meager deposits of a valuable mineral named rhydonium. As the Imperial Remnant has to operate far from the New Republic's gaze and needs the mineral for fuel, it sets up a mine and a refinery to process rhydonium on this relatively unknown planet.