

SCINDIA UNPLUGGED

TELECOM MINISTER EXCLUSIVELY REVEALS HOW
INDIA'S FIGHTING
ONLINE SCAMS

Ashish Singh
editor@digit.in

Imaging: Nikhil Wahal

Last year, Indians lost around ₹22,845 crore to digital criminals and fraudsters, nearly three times the ₹7,465 crore lost in 2023, according to the government's record. Multiple reports and researchers have warned about the chilling picture of the country being increasingly targeted by complex online frauds, including digital arrest, SMS, OTP and more.

The number of cybercrime complaints has also increased dramatically, reaching over 22 lakh in 2024, up from 15.9 lakh in 2023 and approximately three times the volume recorded in 2021.

In an exclusive interaction with Digit, Minister of Communications

Jyotiraditya Scindia outlined the steps the government has taken so far to curb the rising number of scams.

"Let me tell you, it's a continual race," said Scindia, acknowledging the evolving nature of cybercrime. "When there is new innovation in technology... it brings about tremendous dividends... but along with that, it also always opens