iOS 26 now available for download on your iPhones

Apple has officially released iOS 26, introducing the new Liquid Glass design across the Lock Screen, Home Screen, Control Centre, and native apps, featuring adaptive typography, dynamic 3D parallax effects, and highly customizable visuals to create a more immersive and modern UI. AI-powered Apple Intelligence brings advanced capabilities including Live Translation, object extraction from images, Genmoji creation, Image Playground, and intelligent text summarisation, enhancing productivity and creativity. Additional improvements include Call and Message Screening, Hold Assist for better focus, and significant upgrades to Maps, Music, and Wallet for a smoother, more intuitive user experience. The update is available for free to all compatible iPhone users worldwide, ensuring a broad rollout and easy accessibility. tinyurl.com/2io6tc

WhatsApp tests new message thread feature for Android users

WhatsApp is actively developing threaded conversations for group chats, allowing replies to be neatly organised under the original message for better clarity and context. Currently available in the Android beta version 2.25.25.7 for a limited group of testers, the feature displays "sub-threads" with full reply context and internally marks replies as "follow-up replies." Older replies automatically appear within the thread for continuity. A global rollout of this much-anticipated feature is expected in the coming weeks. Additionally, WhatsApp is testing personalised post-sharing, similar to Instagram's Close Friends feature, in its iOS beta version for select users. tinyurl.com/wa57iso

Microsoft brings free Copilot Chat to Word, Excel, PowerPoint

Microsoft is now offering a free version of Copilot Chat within Word, Excel, PowerPoint, Outlook, and OneNote for Microsoft 365 business subscribers. The AI-powered sidebar assists users with drafting content, summarising documents, spreadsheet analysis, and creating presentations, all without requiring any extra licensing fees. The full Copilot, priced at $30 per user per month, provides advanced AI features, organizational-wide access, and full GPT-5 integration for enhanced productivity. Starting in October, sales, service, and finance Copilots will be merged into the main subscription, expanding AI-driven productivity tools across businesses worldwide.. tinyurl.com/cp365ms
