

BEST BUDGET PHONES

26 Motorola Edge 60 Fusion

The Motorola Edge 60 Fusion, priced at ₹22,999, features a curved OLED display with Gorilla Glass 7i on top that looks every bit premium, especially paired with the vegan leather back. If you want a sleek, reliable daily driver with great visuals and battery life, this is a solid pick. If hardcore gaming and cutting-edge performance are your top priorities, you might want to look elsewhere.

27 Vivo T4

At ₹21,999, the Vivo T4 5G is one of the most balanced phones in this price bracket as long as you're willing to overlook a few quirks. The real magic here is how Vivo has managed to squeeze a giant 7,300mAh battery into a body that still feels sleek and light in the hand. The display is vibrant, performance is smooth, and the phone handles long days without breaking a sweat.

28 CMF Phone 2 Pro

With modular design elements, custom looks, and one of the best displays in its class, it's aimed squarely at Gen Z buyers who want a phone that feels fun and fresh. Performance is decent, the UI is clean, and everyday tasks are handled without fuss. For anyone who wants something stylish and different without overspending, the CMF Phone 2 Pro nails the vibe.

29 Oppo K13

The Oppo K13 5G (₹17,999) makes an immediate impression with its elegant design and that bold purple matte finish. It also hides a giant 7,000mAh battery inside, though in practice, the endurance is good, not game-changing. Day-to-day performance is smooth, thanks to a vibrant AMOLED screen and capable hardware, and the phone generally feels more premium than its price suggests. Overall, the Oppo K13 5G looks good, runs reliably, and delivers decent battery life. Sometimes, that's exactly what you need in this price bracket.

30 iQOO Z10 Lite

The iQOO Z10 Lite 5G (₹9,999) is a rare budget phone that knows exactly what it is, and that's why it works. It offers smooth day-to-day performance, solid battery life, and a design that doesn't scream "cheap." Feels like a phone built to last.

LAPTOPS UNDER ₹50,000

31 Acer Aspire 3

If you have budget constraints and need an under ₹50,000 laptop with impressive specs, the Acer Aspire 3 is a great choice. The laptop brings performance and portability in a sleek form factor. It can handle multitasking, coding, and even light content creation without hiccups. Acer Aspire 3 proves that a mid-range laptop can feel premium without demanding a premium price.

32 Lenovo V15 G4

The Lenovo V15 G4 is for those who are looking for a versatile machine that is also reliable. At 1.62 kg, it's portable enough for commutes and meetings, yet solidly built to handle daily wear and tear. For anyone looking for a budget-friendly machine that doesn't compromise on speed or usability, the V15 G4 is a compelling choice under ₹50,000.

33 Lenovo ThinkBook 14

If you spend a lot of time on screen and need a device that strikes the perfect balance between portability and performance, this is for you. With an AMD Ryzen 5 7535HS processor, 16GB RAM, and a 512GB SSD, it handles multiple apps effortlessly, from spreadsheets and presentations to video calls and OTT streaming. At under ₹50,000, the ThinkBook 14 is a reliable, professional-grade machine that proves you don't need to spend big to get a laptop that works hard.

34 Infinix XBook B15

The recently-launched Infinix

XBook B15 is also a decent option for users looking for strong multitasking performance in the mid-range price segment. It features AMD Ryzen processors with 16GB RAM and a 512GB SSD, promising a smooth operation for both academic and creative tasks..

35 Lenovo Ideapad Slim 3

Easy to carry and built to last, the Lenovo IdeaPad Slim 3 Gen 8 can be your daily grind companion. At up to 10% slimmer than the previous generation and finished in Arctic Grey, it looks stylish while promising to meet military-grade durability standards, making it dependable for work, travel, or study. It has a TÜV certification to reduce eye strain, and Dolby Audio speakers for richer sound for enhanced entertainment.
