

■ ANDROID 16 ROLL-OUT UPDATES

Apple iOS 26.3 public beta is here: Everything new and how to download Apple has released the first public beta of iOS 26.3, giving iPhone users an early preview of its next minor update. Unlike major releases, iOS 26.3 focuses on small quality-of-life improvements rather than big design changes. One key addition is a new Transfer to Android feature that allows users to move data like photos, messages, apps, and passwords by simply placing the two devices close together, without needing extra apps. Another update is Notification Forwarding, which lets iPhones send alerts to third-party wearables such as Android smart-watches, though this feature is currently limited to the EU. Apple has also separated Weather into its own Lock Screen customisation section, adding new preset weather-themed wallpapers. The beta is available via Apple's Beta Software Program. tinyurl.com/1uis16a

ChatGPT can edit images using Adobe Photoshop

Adobe has integrated Photoshop, Adobe Express, and Acrobat directly into ChatGPT, allowing users to edit photos, design visuals, and work with PDFs using simple text prompts. The move aims to make creative and productivity tools more accessible, even for users with no prior Adobe experience. In ChatGPT, Photoshop enables targeted photo edits and effects, Adobe Express helps create social posts and designs using templates, and Acrobat allows PDF editing, conversion, and file management. Users can upload files, describe the changes they want, and refine results step by step. tinyurl.com/efgy2ux

Microsoft to increase 365 and Office subscription prices

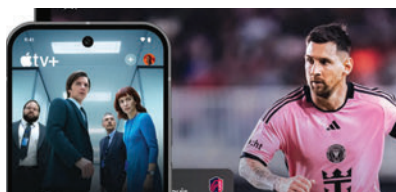

Microsoft has announced global price increases for its Microsoft 365 and Office commercial subscriptions starting July 1, 2026. The company says the hike reflects years of added features, stronger security protections, and deeper AI integration across its productivity tools. Microsoft 365 Business Basic will rise to $7 per user per month, while Business Standard increases to $14. Enterprise plans will see smaller hikes, with E3 moving to $39 and E5 to $60. Frontline worker plans will face the sharpest increases. Microsoft says it has added over 1,100 features since 2022. tinyurl.com/12efdssa

■ OTT UPDATE

Apple TV app on Android gets Google Cast capabilities

Apple has updated the Apple TV app on Android to add Google Cast support, fixing a major limitation that has been there since the app's launch. With version 2.2.0, Android phones and tablets can now cast Apple TV and Apple TV+ content directly to Chromecast-enabled TVs and streaming devices. Users will see a Cast icon in the app and within the video player, allowing quick switching from mobile playback to the big screen. Once connected, playback controls appear in a mini player with options for subtitles, audio, and scrubbing. This addition now makes Apple TV far more practical on Android and brings it closer when it comes to the feature parity against iOS, especially for users already invested in Google Cast-based home entertainment setups.. tinyurl.com/1ugsbqa1