

■ MAJOR SOFTWARE & OS UPDATES

Apple iOS 26.3 and iPadOS 26.3 are now available in India

Apple has released iOS 26.3 and iPadOS 26.3, nearly two months after version 26.2, focusing largely on bug fixes and security improvements while introducing a handful of practical additions. One of the most notable changes is a new tool that simplifies switching from an Apple device to Android, allowing users to transfer photos, messages, notes, apps, passwords, and contacts directly during the setup process without downloading extra apps. The update also introduces a setting to limit carrier location tracking, though it is currently supported by select carriers in the US, UK, Germany, and Thailand on devices equipped with C1 or C1X modems. In Europe, third party wearables can now pair with iPhones using a one tap method similar to AirPods and access richer notifications. Apple has also separated Weather into its own dedicated Lock Screen wallpaper section. tinyurl.com/s81hba7

■ YOUTUBE UPDATES

YouTube auto dubbing now supports 27 languages

YouTube has rolled out a major update to its auto dubbing feature, expanding support to 27 languages while introducing a Preferred Language control and a Lip barrier to global reach. The platform says millions of viewers are already watching auto dubbed content daily, highlighting rising adoption. In select languages, Expressive Speech enhances tone and emotional delivery, making dubbed audio sound more natural. Viewers can manually set their preferred language in account settings, ensuring supported videos default to that choice instead of relying only on watch history. YouTube is also testing AI powered Lip Sync to better align translated audio with on screen mouth movements. Smart filtering prevents dubbing on unsuitable content, and creators retain full control over enabling or disabling the feature. tinyurl.com/s81hs3

Sync pilot. Creators can now automatically translate and dub videos into multiple languages without recording separate audio tracks, lowering the

Apple AI Siri overhaul delayed again

Apple has reportedly delayed its upgraded Siri again, according to Bloomberg, with features now possibly shifting from iOS 26.4 to iOS 26.5 or even iOS 27 due to performance and reliability issues during internal testing. tinyurl.com/s89agi

Meta is killing Facebook Messenger for web users, but there's a catch

Meta will shut down messenger.com in April 2026, redirecting desktop users to facebook.com/messages. Messenger remains available via the Facebook website and mobile app. tinyurl.com/s7gh21b

EPFO 3.0 will soon let you withdraw money from your PF account via UPI

Employees' Provident Fund Organisation plans to launch UPI based PF withdrawals by April 2026 under EPFO 3.0, enabling members to transfer up to 75% instantly using a UPI PIN, keeping 25% locked. tinyurl.com/epf02ks