

Kentrosaurus

Bulky Kentrosaurus was one of the spikiest of the stegosaurs, making an attack challenging for even the most confident predator.

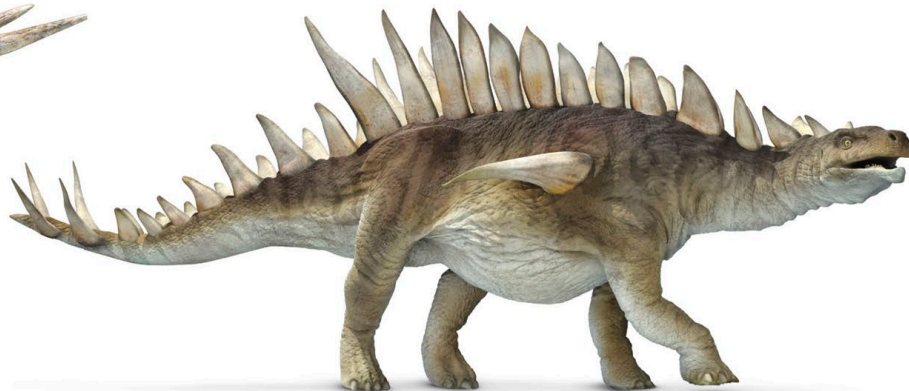

» Scale

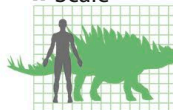

FACT FILE

- » When: Late Jurassic
- » Length: 16 ft (5 m)
- » Fun fact: Kentrosaurus had one of the most flexible tails of all the dinosaurs.

» Scale

FACT FILE

- » When: Jurassic
- » Length: 13 ft (4 m)
- » Fun fact: Some skulls of Huayangosaurus have small horns above the eyes, which could mean they are skulls of adults.

Huayangosaurus

Small by stegosaur standards, Huayangosaurus had short front legs and longer back legs. This made it easier to bend down to graze on plants.

» Scale

FACT FILE

- » When: Early Jurassic
- » Length: 3 ft (1 m)
- » Fun fact: The skin of Scutellosaurus was covered in hundreds of bony studs.

Scutellosaurus

Smaller than you, this tiny dinosaur resembled a modern-day lizard. Scutellosaurus wasn't a stegosaur itself, but it was closely related to them.