

Begin with a bang

Scientists have found evidence that a massive explosion, 13.8 billion years ago, made all the energy that exists in the Universe. This giant explosion that created time and space is known as the Big Bang.

A world of energy

We use energy all the time to power our homes, schools, and work places. The light energy we use at night is so bright it can be seen from space.

