

The last emperor

Bao Dai was crowned ruler of Annam (central Vietnam) in 1932. The French saw him, like all traditional rulers, as a figurehead for French colonial power, but Bao Dai harbored his own aspirations to lead Vietnam to independence.