

Going for Victory

Aware of the deteriorating political situation in South Vietnam, the communist leadership in the North decided to launch an ambitious military offensive against the South in the hope of rousing a general revolt and causing the US-backed government to collapse.