

OCTOBER 9

An instance of combat refusal by troops of the Air Cavalry Division draws public attention to the poor morale of American troops in Vietnam.

US Air Force flying helmet

DECEMBER 26–30

President Nixon orders intensive bombing of southern North Vietnam in retaliation for breaches of the understanding that forms a basis for the peace talks.

DECEMBER 31

By the year's end, the number of US troops in Vietnam has fallen to 156,800. The American death toll for the year is 2,414.