

Bombing. There was some new language on the DMZ, but the failure to convert it to a border was a success for North Vietnam. The removal of NVA forces from South Vietnam was delegated to the joint committees, which would frustrate Saigon's representatives.

Homecoming welcome

Women at the Miramar Air Station, California, wait for their husbands to arrive back on US soil in February 1973. Their husbands, US Marines, were among the first POWs released following the Peace Accords.

Peace agreed

The signing took place on January 27, with William Rogers the US signatory and Nguyen Duy Trinh North Vietnam's. Protocols that included the two South Vietnamese parties were signed by Saigon's Tran Van Lam, and Nguyen Thi Binh of the NLF's Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG). At 8 a.m. on January 28, 1973, the guns fell silent. The American war was over.