

The Geneva Accords

The origin of America's Vietnam War lay in the agreements reached at the Geneva Conference in 1954. Negotiations ended the war between France and the Viet Minh, but divided Vietnam and left its future to be settled by a later, more destructive conflict.