

Save the whale!

Whales have been around for more than 50 million years—that's about 10 times longer than human beings! Everyone wants them to stay around, and there are different ways of helping them to do so.

Some whales seem to be as curious about people as we are about them!

Let's go see a whale!

Some people like whales so much they want to see them close up. This is called whale watching. It has become a big business.

A path to freedom

These whales have become stranded underneath pack ice. The people are working to keep a breathing hole open and cut a path to the sea.
