

More powerful 85 mm
main gun

Coaxial machine gun operated by the co-driver

Commander's cupola, added
to later models

THREE-QUARTER
VIEW

Idler wheel set at the front

Road wheels
rimmed with rubber

211И

Battalion insignia

This particular tank was deployed in the second company (2) of the first battalion, and was the command tank (number 11) of the first platoon. The small Russian letter on the right ("И" in English) is the initial of the first battalion's commander, Ivanov.

Influential design

When the T-34 first entered service in World War II, its armor and firepower were groundbreaking. However, its crews were not always sufficiently trained to operate it effectively.