Flag of Canada

The maple leaf has long been a symbol of Canada, and took pride of place on the Canadian flag in 1965. Here it features on the side of the Canadian-built Cougar.

Versatile machine

The Cougar is one of the many wheeled armored vehicles based on a 6x6 or 8x8 chassis that came into service at the end of the 20th century. Faster, lighter, and cheaper, these vehicles have taken on a number of roles that were previously performed by tanks.
