

Handwritten text in a script, likely Georgian, located below the mechanical drawing. The text is written in a cursive style and appears to be a description or label for the device.

