Advances in technology meant that US soldiers in subsequent foreign wars did not suffer the same degree of isolation.

R&R SINCE VIETNAM

US military authorities continue to believe in the importance of maintaining troop morale. MWR (morale, welfare, and recreation) centers were provided in Iraq and Afghanistan to provide units with leisure facilities, such as pool tables, video games, and swimming pools. R&R in countries such as Qatar was also offered, but most troops chose to visit home instead.
