

Called to arms

A group of young North Vietnamese women watch as one trains with a rifle. All women in North Vietnam were taught to fight with weapons and in hand-to-hand combat, but few chose to join the NVA—those who did were often young, single, and childless.