

Digit Community, assemble!

For a trip down memory lane like no other...

Over the last couple of months, we asked you to send us your memories of Digit, what this magazine, your friendly neighbourhood tech navigator, means to you. And you folks didn't disappoint. Compiling these responses had us teary-eyed and nostalgic at the same time. It also gave the current team awesome insights into what Digit means for its community. Without your love and support, we wouldn't have reached this milestone. Thank you!

Here are just a few of the responses shared with us over the past month. We will be featuring more of our community responses in future editions of Digit, every single month till at least the end of the calendar year. Stay tuned, and with that, read away...

1) From Railway Trolley to Letter of the Month

My very first memory of picking up a Digit magazine is when a friend showed it to me back in +2. It just blew my mind. And the CD was just phenomenal. And there was only one place in the entire city of Vizag where I could buy a copy of Digit and that was a tiny book trolley inside the railway station. And I used to go there every month just to buy Digit (with the CDs). This continued on and off till I got my own place and since then subscription is the go to mode. Another big memory is when my letter to Rob back in 2020 during the lockdown got selected as the letter of the month. Thank you guys for being a big part of my life!

—Ferdinant Lopez, Hyderabad

3) The Green Mint 'Chip' that Started It All

Digit for me was introduced as 'Chip'. The first issue was a bright green mint coloured one with a shiny CD!! A free CD with a Rs100 magazine? Was it really the future I was living in?? I was pretty excited, as I had bought it with the money my dad gave me and eagerly tore the paper bag containing the CD. Wow! There was tons of software, wallpapers, icon sets and what not ... Oh boy! Spoilt for choice really I was. After the install mania ended in about a week, I looked at the mag. Not bad I'd say. Articles and all. Skimmed them through. But wait, the CD! That was the game changer. Cut to 2026, I have a 15-yr-old son now, and he still mocks me for the almost child-like glee he sees in my eyes when a new Digit issue drops in! Cheers to Digit .. to the next 25.

—Kedar Deshpande, Mumbai

2) Living the Dream: From Fan to Contributor

From picking up an older issue for ₹50 at the 2015 Lucknow National Bookfair to working with the folks I grew up reading was a dream come true. Digit was, is, and will be the gold standard of tech reviews in India and I couldn't be more proud to have played a tiny part in driving it forward.

Here's to many more years of tech journalism excellence! Keep up the great work! And never let the Digit spirit die.

—Satvik Pandey, Lucknow

4) A Banker's 20-Year Evolution with Print

I have been a loyal reader of your magazine since the era of magazines like Chip, Computer Activ, PC World which came and discontinued. I still remember the excitement of receiving the CDs then DVDs accompanied by Digit, dMystify, then came Fast Track. It has been a wonderful journey to behold. Though I am a banker by profession, my technical knowledge has grown immensely, and all thanks to Digit. I still have the old CD and DVD, plus some copies of dMystify and Fast Track booklets. All the best!!! Please keep spreading the wealth of knowledge. The way I have seen you guys evolving in the last 20 years with time, I truly hope you continue physical printing of Digit magazines.

—Prakash Mane, Thane