

As you can see on the above chart, one explosive candle captured good points but then retraced back to the level of a fair value candle. The chart clearly tells that the fair value candle zone works and price has moved after reaching the zone. As a trader, you need to mark these areas to get more accuracy.