

The limitation of this strategy is that you have to wait until the price takes a pullback. When the price makes explosive moves, it is likely that you might miss the trade as the price would move away from the pullback area. As a result, you are likely to get limited trading opportunities.