

Entertainment & Streaming Apps

From Bollywood to board games

India's entertainment landscape has diversified beyond the heavyweights – JioHotstar (formerly Disney+ Hotstar), SonyLIV, and Zee5 – to include a rich tapestry of regional and niche streaming services catering to local languages, cultures, and tastes. Leading the charge is JioHotstar, which shattered viewership records with 449 million IPL 2023 viewers and an astounding 620 million for IPL 2024, making live sports freely accessible to every Indian cricket fan. In music, JioSaavn and Gaana jointly command over 200 million subscribers, their deep regional catalogs and free tiers keeping them competitive against global players.

Meanwhile, a wave of specialized OTT apps – Sun NXT for South Indian cinema, Neestream for Malayalam originals, Aha for Telugu/Tamil content, hoichoi for Bengali audiences, and Manorama Max for Malayalam – have lit up niche segments, often with exclusive web series and movies unavailable elsewhere. Emerging digital comics platforms like Graphic India and storytelling apps such as Pratilipi further expand the universe. Across this chapter, you'll find detailed, step-by-step guides to subscribing, personalizing language and subtitles, downloading for offline use, and navigating each platform's unique features – empowering you to craft a tailor-made entertainment ecosystem entirely with Indian apps.
