

symphonique (1962)—written for 100 metronomes—in the program This Music Should Not Exist. In the performance at Zankel Hall, New York, Ligeti's music was interspersed with music by Anton Seifert, Stockhausen, and Charlie Chaplin.