

Barbara Strozzi

c. 1619–1677, ITALIAN

Born into the male world of 17th-century Venice, Strozzi was the most-published composer of secular vocal music in her day and a key figure in the rise of the cantata and aria.