

Joseph Haydn

1732–1809, AUSTRIAN

Highly prolific, Haydn wrote more than a hundred symphonies and a host of chamber works that founded the Classical era in Western music. His works were a major influence on Mozart and more especially on Beethoven.