

Frédéric Chopin

1810–1849, POLISH

Chopin was one of the archetypal tragic heroes of Romanticism: his life embraced exile from his war-torn homeland, a love affair with a scandalous woman, and an extraordinary talent betrayed by a frail body.