

César Franck

1822–1890, BELGIAN

Franck was a skilled public performer in his youth, but his immense talent for composition only truly blossomed in his final years. He went on to become an influential organist, composer, and teacher.