

Alexander Borodin

1833–1887, RUSSIAN

A chemist by profession, Borodin rose to fame as one of The Five, a group of composers eager to establish a uniquely Russian school of music. He is most famous for his String Quartet No. 2 and his opera Prince Igor.