

JOHANNES BRAHMS, c.1890

In his youth, Brahms had been angelic-looking, but in later life he developed into the portly, heavily bearded, almost Santa Claus-like figure familiar from many paintings and photographs.