

Thomas Tallis

c. 1505–1585, ENGLISH

Tallis was a leading composer of church music during the Tudor period. He steered a difficult course through the Reformation, but maintained his status as a distinguished member of the Chapel Royal.