

Orlande de Lassus

c. 1532–1594, FLEMISH

A late-Renaissance composer, Lassus was in his day the most popular songwriter in Europe. Writing exclusively for voices, he was tirelessly prolific, composing more than 2,000 pieces of secular and sacred music.