

he had a thorough musical education, and was most likely a chorister at London's Chapel Royal, where he was a pupil of Thomas Tallis.

SCORE OF SING JOYFULLY

The late work Sing joyfully unto God our strength is a church anthem for six voices. It is widely hailed as one of Byrd's finest anthems.

In 1563, he was appointed organist and choirmaster at Lincoln Cathedral, a post that he held for nine years. In Lincoln, he married Julian Birley—it was a happy marriage that lasted from 1568 to her death in the 1580s.

A growing reputation

During his time in Lincoln, Byrd's reputation as a performer and
