

Francis Poulenc

1899–1963, FRENCH

Poulenc made his name in the 1920s as one of the young composers known as Les Six, his witty, irreverent music matching his carefree life; but he later developed a more serious compositional style.