

CLAIMS COMPLAINT RATIO

Insurance companies often reject claims if they seem ingenuine or suspicious. Of those they reject, many users also complain to the insurance company in consumer courts. It is a routine part of their business. So, the number of complaints against an insurance company per 10,000 claims made is an important metric. It shows the company's tendency to honor claims and not reject them. So, we will go ahead with companies that have low complaints per 10,000 claims.

8

