

Without two banks accounts, keeping a track of bank transactions mentally leads to errors. People often end up spending more than they should. It becomes difficult to stay disciplined when we have a debit card linked to the account. Moreover, it becomes hard to keep the investments and expenses separate. Having two accounts is a sustainable idea.

