

UNIQUE CIRCUMSTANCES

Time to pat our backs as we have made it to the last element of the RRTLLU principle. 'U' stands for 'Unique Circumstance's which refers to factors that are unique or specific to us such as emotional attachment to certain assets, differences in opinion between family members regarding certain asset types, dependency on certain assets etc. These factors will affect our financial plan exclusively. List down any such factor in the canvas.

Refer to the following page to look at a few examples. In this manner, people have different circumstances that they need to take into consideration while creating a financial plan. Since it is impossible to list them all at one go, we will go on adding them as we realize more and more circumstances proceeding with the planning stage.

With this, we end the RRTLLU stage of profiling. So far, we have created a personal income statement, balance sheet and understood our profile. We are done with a major chunk of our lazy canvas. The two steps that remain are to support our plan so that we can follow them up effectively. This is the part where we understand our insurance needs.
