

We will go on a journey throughout this book learning the stock market terminologies and market indices. We will learn about the factors that influence the stock prices, resources available with the public and valuation techniques used to value stocks. Apart from that we will learn about market cycles and their mathematics, different methods to be used to research a particular company. We will make this a very practical journey.

Finally we will talk about how a stock goes to 10X and then 10X to 100X. Renowned investors have different market philosophies which will be discussed at the very end.

This book will take you to a ride through stocks but won't spoon feed you with research and tips. That is an effort you need to put. So let's start learning together.
